

2022 Mono Lake Committee ANNUAL REPORT

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND CHAIR OF THE BOARD

October 2022

This has been a year of reckoning. The evidence is clear: if we want Mono Lake to rise to 6392 feet—the healthy level we fought for and won—the State Water Board rules for Mono Basin stream diversions must be revisited.

The stakes are high. The landbridge between the mainland and Negit Island has expanded, leading hungry coyotes closer to ground-nesting California Gulls on nearby islets. Growing expanses of alkali flats mean worsening air quality violations. The increasing salinity of the lake means that the health of the entire ecosystem—from brine shrimp and alkali flies to migratory birds—is at risk.

Your support has enabled us to expand the amount of time and resources our staff and experts devote to these issues, from field monitoring to hydrologic science to legal work.

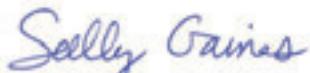

Meanwhile, a new era of restoration is underway—with the Mono Lake Committee on the new State Water Board-ordered Monitoring Administration Team, we have already implemented critical science monitoring projects for the streams and for Mono Lake.

And more good news: This summer we led a full slate of South Tufa tours, canoe tours, bird walks, Field Seminars, and Outdoor Education Center programs connecting thousands of people with Mono Lake. The Mono Basin Field Station is humming with researchers.

Raising Mono Lake represents a commitment to a future in which lakes and streams and cities and wildlife and people all have an opportunity to thrive. The Mono Lake Committee is dedicated to seeing the spirit and details of this inspiring decision become reality for Mono Lake.

Thank you for being part of this effort—through thick and thin.

Long Live Mono Lake!

Sally Gaines, Chair, Board of Directors

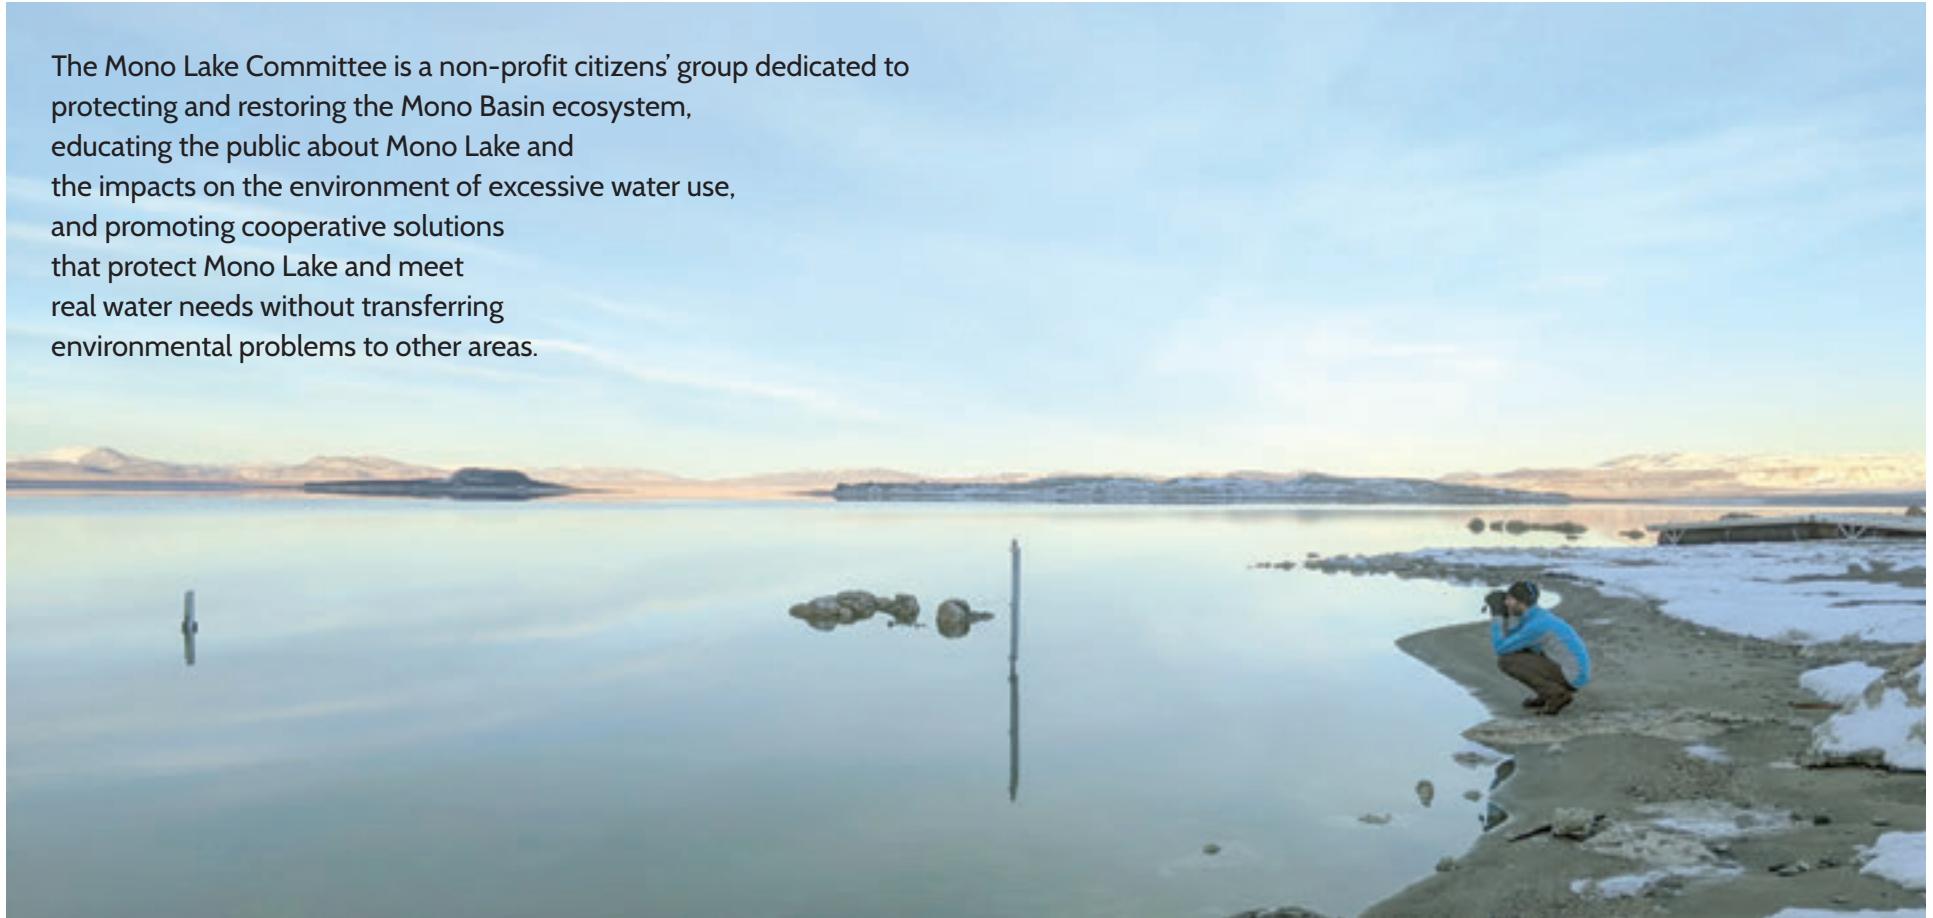

Geoffrey McQuilkin, Executive Director

The 2022 Mono Lake Committee staff.

The Mono Lake Committee is a non-profit citizens' group dedicated to protecting and restoring the Mono Basin ecosystem, educating the public about Mono Lake and the impacts on the environment of excessive water use, and promoting cooperative solutions that protect Mono Lake and meet real water needs without transferring environmental problems to other areas.

For over 40 years, the Mono Lake Committee has been inspired by a love for this beautiful place, where a remarkable salt lake lies at the center of a landscape and ecosystem unmatched. Our vision is of a healthy, protected, and wild Mono Basin and of an organization that seeks positive, principled, proactive solutions to problems.

The Committee's landmark success—saving Mono Lake from excessive diversion of water to Los Angeles—is internationally known. We revitalized the Public Trust doctrine through a precedent-setting California Supreme Court decision, launched programs to meet Los Angeles' real water needs through water conservation and reclamation, and achieved an extraordinary revision of water rights in the Mono Basin that ensures Mono Lake will thrive and its tributary streams will prosper.

Hundreds of thousands of people have united in support of Mono Lake, and we have learned that protecting this place requires us to do even more. Today the Committee tackles new challenges, advances the restoration of the lake and its streams, shares this special place through unique education programs, and broadens our knowledge of Mono Lake through scientific research. As always, we maintain constant vigilance to protect our collective hard-won victories.

PROTECTION

Protecting Mono Lake, its streams, and surrounding watershed requires nimble advocacy, thoughtful planning, and vigilance. Mono Lake needs ongoing citizen involvement to ensure that protections remain strong. Our history of engagement with Mono Lake water issues provides critical expertise needed to ensure that promised protections are followed.

The lake is now less than 30% of the way to its mandated healthy level, with the associated problems—increased violation of air quality standards, danger of predation to the nesting California Gull colony, and little buffer against ecosystem damage from dry years—growing in scope. The Mono Lake Committee has been modeling a range of stream diversion scenarios to envision how the lake might be able to rise, as well as working toward solutions with the State Water Board and Los Angeles leadership.

The Committee's day-to-day watchdog role remained important in 2022. We pursued a settlement agreement to fix a botched attempt to remediate the Lee Vining Burn Dump project site next to the Mono Basin Scenic Area Visitor Center. We also compiled a growing list of habitat impacts caused by wild horses and monitored the gull colony for signs of coyote incursion.

For the April 1, 2022 lake level reading that decreased water exports for the year, Mono Lake Committee and Los Angeles Department of Water & Power staff were joined by representatives from the Kutzadika'a Tribe, Great Basin Unified Air Pollution Control District, California Trout, Mono Lake Tufa State Natural Reserve, and the Mono Basin National Forest Scenic Area.

The Committee is working to resolve a mismanaged dump remediation project at the Scenic Area Visitor Center.

Mono Lake Volunteers and staff from the USFS, State Parks, and Committee clear horse manure at South Tufa.

Robbie and Maureen making sure they get an accurate lake level gauge reading.

Geoff presents at the Great Basin Unified Air Pollution Control District air quality workshop in Lee Vining.

Committee staff welcomed journalists from Utah to discuss parallels between Mono and Great Salt Lake.

RESTORATION

to Los Angeles. The goal in the Mono Basin is to rejuvenate the dynamic ecological processes of Mono Lake and its tributary streams to re-establish conditions that support thriving ecosystems into the future.

A new era of stream restoration is underway in the Mono Basin with State Water Board Order 2021-86 amending Los Angeles' Mono Basin water rights to include new requirements to maximize restoration of 20 miles of damaged stream habitat on Rush, Lee Vining, Parker, and Walker creeks. This year, with the Mono Lake Committee on the new Monitoring Administration Team, we have already implemented critical science monitoring projects for the streams and for the lake.

On Mill Creek, in the north Mono Basin, the Committee works collaboratively with Southern California Edison and water rights holders to ensure the reliability of water delivery infrastructure, improve modeling tools for hydropower facility operations, and restore this vital tributary.

The Committee continues to be a part of the collaborative community effort to restore and maintain the DeChambeau Ponds. These north shore ponds provide valuable waterfowl and wildlife habitat for migratory birds.

Sophia records data at a beaver dam on a channel in the Rush Creek bottomlands.

Ryan removes an invasive Bassia weed from California Gull nesting habitat on the Negit Islets.

A community effort at the DeChambeau Ponds is revitalizing critical waterfowl and wildlife habitat.

Volunteers clear vegetation from the ditches that feed the DeChambeau Ponds.

RESTORATION

Zoe measures and records Mill Creek streamflow as part of north basin restoration monitoring.

EDUCATION

To share the sense of wonder and understanding that Mono Lake evokes, the Committee's education programs offer a wide array of opportunities for visitors, members, and enthusiasts to learn more about Mono Lake in addition to environmental education programs for thousands of students each year.

This year we returned to a full slate of summer education programs! We led public tours to introduce to the natural, cultural, and water history of the Mono Basin. Walking sunset tours at South Tufa happened every evening. We launched canoe tours every weekend, and led weekly bird walks at County Park and in Lundy Canyon.

Field Seminars on topics ranging from natural history and photography to volcanology and the Los Angeles Aqueduct provided opportunities for multi-day learning experiences once again. We happily take out any class from elementary school through college to introduce students to Mono Lake and the Mono Lake story.

Hundreds of birders flocked to the Mono Basin Bird Chautauqua in-person for the first time since 2019. The Mono Basin Outdoor Education Center programs also returned to full force hosting over 20 environmental and social justice groups from Los Angeles to share the importance of water conservation. The Information Center and Bookstore was open throughout the summer to offer information about the state of the lake as well as where to visit Mono Lake and what to see.

UC Santa Cruz students visit the Lee Vining Creek diversion facility during a field tour.

Summertime weekend canoe tours resumed in 2022, giving hundreds of people this exciting experience.

The Committee partnered with the Mono Arts Council for an art-and-nature summer camp for local children.

Free daily evening South Tufa tours introduced thousands of visitors to Mono Lake throughout the summer.

EDUCATION

Outdoor Education Center students from Pacoima Beautiful share a message to California legislators to fund water access projects and affordability programs in the state budget.

Group field tours resumed at full strength in 2022, with many beginning at Mono Lake Committee headquarters.

At the Lee Vining Creek headwaters, field seminar participants learn about mountain botany and ecology.

Claire gives participants an overview of plate tectonics during her volcanism field seminar.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

Science provides a critical basis for policy positions, a guide for restoration, and inspiration for understanding Mono Lake. Scientific research has provided the ecosystem and landscape knowledge that is the foundation of Mono Lake's protection.

The Committee works closely with researchers, supports well-established projects like annual California Gull research and Eared Grebe surveys, and hosts a research library and online clearinghouse of Mono Basin scientific information at monobasinresearch.org.

The Mono Basin Field Station provides research support facilities with the goals of enhancing the scientific knowledge of the Mono Basin, fostering collaboration and information exchange, infusing our education programs with engaged scientists, and giving students opportunities to see scientific work in action.

Since opening in 2004 the Mono Basin Field Station has supported 216 researchers working on 113 field projects. Topics of study have ranged from Greater Sage-Grouse and phalaropes to volcanology, fish, arthropods, and climate science.

A highlight of the 2022 field season was a group from the US Geological Survey's California Volcano Observatory that visited twice this year as part of a new initiative to better understand the volcanic eruptions in the Mono Basin, improve the age estimates of those eruptions, and assess the probability and possible hazard of a future eruption.

Biologists now use new, less disruptive, technology to monitor California Gulls.

Robbie retrieves an in-stream data logger that collects temperature data in Rush Creek.

Fisheries monitoring ordered by the State Water Board helps track stream restoration progress.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

Mono Basin Field Station

2022 Research projects facilitated include:

- Survey of California Gull reproductive success at Mono Lake: Ryan Burnett, Point Blue Conservation Science.
- Eared Grebe surveys on Mono Lake: Sean Boyd, PhD, Pacific Wildlife Research Centre, Environment and Climate Change Canada.
- Western North American Coordinated Phalarope Surveys: Ryan Carle, Science Manager, Oikos Ecosystem Knowledge.
- Investigation of Holocene volcanic eruptions in the Mono Basin: Andy Calvert, PhD, Wes Hildreth, PhD, and the US Geological Survey.
- Lake-atmosphere interactions and thermal monitoring: Matthew J Hornbach, PhD, Southern Methodist University.
- Hydrologic Modeling using Stable Isotope Hydrology & Paleoclimate: Naomi Levin, Benjamin Passey, Andrew Gronewold, Anne Fetrow, University of Michigan.
- Greater Sage-Grouse monitoring and research: US Geological Survey field crew in collaboration with DWP, BLM, CDFW, and USFWS.
- Nesting behavior of Spotted Sandpipers in the Mono Basin: Jessica Schaefer, PhD candidate, UC Davis.
- Development of late Pleistocene and early and middle Holocene hydroclimatic record of the Mono Basin: Guleed Ali, PhD, Earth Observatory of Singapore.
- Life history and ecology of White-crowned Sparrows in Tuolumne Meadows: UC Davis.

ECOLOGICAL FOOTPRINT

Evaluating our impacts in the course of protecting Mono Lake is an important part of the equation. As we face the realities of climate change in the Mono Basin, one element of the Mono Lake Committee mission statement—"without transferring environmental problems to other areas"—has new meaning. In the course of protecting Mono Lake we track our resource use and challenge ourselves to increase efficiency and reduce impacts.

The COVID-19 pandemic changed how and where we work, operate, and accomplish organizational goals. As we continue to evolve with the changing workplace landscape we take into consideration the high carbon footprint of travel alongside effectiveness, efficacy, and office culture.

At our headquarters, 57 strategically-placed solar panels help us achieve net-zero power consumption for our Information Center & Bookstore and office operations even when at full operational capacity. At the Mono Basin Outdoor Education Center 16 solar panels to meet our net-zero power consumption goal for the OEC too.

We are currently working toward a net-zero power consumption goal for the Mono Basin Field Station with 27 solar panels installed in 2021 and 6 new panels doubling the capacity at the Stephens Property Field Station location.

Mono Lake Volunteers

The Mono Lake Volunteer program is a joint initiative sponsored by the US Forest Service, California State Parks (the Mono Lake Tufa State Natural Reserve), and the Mono Lake Committee, with support from the Eastern Sierra Interpretive Association and the Bodie Foundation. Volunteers are a critical part of these agencies' work on behalf of Mono Lake.
